

Mediterranean Migration Network Newsletter

September 2018

Editorial

Dear colleagues,

According to a new report published by the UNHCR under the title “Desperate Journeys”, despite the fact that the numbers of refugees and migrants reaching Europe last year have dropped, the dangers many of these people face along the way have increased in some cases. “Search and rescue is a humanitarian imperative and must remain a top priority. If human beings are in distress at sea, the question is not about their status, but rather saving lives” (Volker Turk, UNHCR Assistant High Commissioner for Protection, 06 July 2017).

So far 489 deaths have been reported at sea this year compared to 870 in the first three months of last year” (UNHCR, January 2017 – March 2018).

The need to increase solidarity among the Member States of Europe and countries of first asylum and transit is imminent. This will help towards enhancing the quality of reception, especially for unaccompanied and separated children and survivors of sexual and gender-biased violence.

Taking into consideration the above evidences, the Mediterranean Migration Network, coordinated by the international Research Centre CARDET, and the SME INNOVADE, continues its activities and actions towards providing support to stakeholders who are called to delegate migration and integration issues daily.

The Mediterranean Migration Network (MMN) develops within the framework of “Integration Network” (CY/2018/AMIF/SO2.NO3.3.1/2), which is co-funded by the Asylum, Migration and Integration Fund (90%) and the Republic of Cyprus (10%).

The 3rd Project Meeting of the MigrEmpower project has successfully taken place

The consortium of the MigrEmpower project from Spain, Austria, France, Italy, Germany and Cyprus, attended the third meeting of the project in Vienna (Austria) on the 13th and 14th September 2018. The partners had interesting discussions about the ways of reaching migrants / asylum seekers to let them know of the project's aims in order to take the interviews and conduct the focus group discussions to develop an effective "Orientation and Counselling Handbook". In addition, partners reviewed the modules and reflected on the possible future challenges during the piloting implementation sessions and ways of resolving them. Partners had interesting inputs in relation to the interviews they had conducted already and shared the target audience's opinions. The consortium is now looking for migrant employers / migrants who successfully found a job in the hosting countries to participate in networking sessions in order to provide their suggestions. These will help partners to develop useful training material and provide opportunities for the social and labour integration of migrants / asylum seekers. Promoting the inclusion of refugee children at school, while fostering harmonious inter-personal relations at the school and community levels

The "BACKPACK ID" project, is an innovative intervention for promoting the inclusion of refugee children at school in 4 European countries (Greece, Italy, Germany and Sweden), which are met with acute and very diverse challenges by the ongoing refugee crisis. Informed by these differences, the present approach on social inclusion advances a common account of social inclusion challenges; it sees the social inclusion of refugee children as a function of addressing the needs and perspectives of those children and their families, and local communities and stakeholders, while affirming common European values.

Backpack team is working towards finalizing the content of the E-book along with the video production of a collection of videos that will be developed based on the students' personal stories and contribution.
