TEACHING GREEN

Teaching Green Project: The beginning

An international project to raise awareness for climate change.

Do you want to learn more about climate change?

Are you aware of the impact we have on the environment?

Teaching Green is an international project that aims to support the competencies and skills of teachers (of students aged 10-16) in the implementation of practical environmental education which raises the awareness of climate change, its impacts and mitigation actions. Our objective is to support critical thinking, digital skills, a sense of social responsibility for the local environment and foster the environmental behavior of students. The partner countries of the project are Slovakia, Spain, Italy and Cyprus.

On the 4ᵗʰ of February 2022, we had our first online meeting, marking the start of the project.

Have a look at the project's Facebook group and website where new ideas and tools will be regularly shared.
